

Jerome Jian Jiang 姜健 is graduate student in Computer Science at Stony Brook University. In his own words: “I am interested in the visualization of topology and geometry concepts, which makes it an amazing work. Interacting with computers and mathematical concepts is becoming a natural thought in my life. I also loves traveling and photographing.” Jerome will be Coaching for our Mathcamp Computer Science course, and we are glad he can join us.